PETITIONING THE COURT

To modify the conditions of supervision as follows:

- 19 The defendant shall be allowed to travel to the country of Canada with the advance prior approval of the probation officer.

CAUSE

The offender was originally sentenced in the Western District of Washington on March 17, 2008, to a 2-year term of probation. The offender's offense involved not reporting she had remarried while continuing to receive social security benefits from the death of her first husband. Restitution of $34,816 was ordered. The offender makes regular restitution payments and is in compliance with the conditions of her probation to the best knowledge of the probation officer. The offender has no other criminal history. Transfer of jurisdiction in this case was completed on January 28, 2009.

The offender is employed as a sales and marketing representative for Evergreen Financial Services. Evergreen Financial Services provides debt collection services. The defendant currently travels in Washington, Oregon, and Idaho to develop and service accounts. Her company has expanded into the Canadian market and is beginning to service accounts in the British Columbia area. In order to facilitate servicing of these accounts and develop new accounts, the offender is requesting permission to travel to Canada on a regular basis. The offender's employer is aware of the offender's Federal conviction.

Generally, only the Court can authorize travel outside the United States for individuals under the Court's jurisdiction, unless specific authority is granted to the probation officer for this purpose. In this case, the offender requests the Court approve the modification of her conditions to allow the probation officer to grant her travel to Canada. This will avoid multiple requests to the Court for the same purpose and possible delays in obtaining approval. The offender has signed a waiver agreeing to this condition which is attached for the Court's review.

Considering the offender's legitimate employment needs, her lack of a significant criminal history, and excellent compliance while on probation, it is requested the Court approve the modification as requested.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.
